For the Benefit of Our Customers

Dr. Garfield, Fuel Administrator, made the following statement before the National Coal Dealers' Association, Chicago, May 31, 1919:

CHICAGO, May 31.—Dr. Garfield, here to address the national coal convention, says the affairs of the fuel administration terminate with peace, so far as he is concerned, and he will resume the presidency of Williams College. "Buy coal now," he said, "August will be too late. This country is short 48,000,000 tons of coal this year and 150,000 miners have been lost to the industry. I certainly believe the fuel administration justified its existence; figures compiled at Washington by my assistants prove that. I can say with pride our administration of fuel supplies of America and much of the world during the war helped greatly in its winning."

RAILROADS SHIFTS DIGEST

Mrs. Bush Resents Accusation and More Than Holds Her Own.

Tacked as suspected of improper conduct on Main street, near Adams avenue, Wednesday night, by Mrs. M. Myers, a private detective, trail-appearing Mrs. Bush, 21 years old, 204 Market avenue, proved an expert of superdreadoughts in her fury at being accused as a woman of the streets. Although Mrs. Myers is a robust, athletic appearing woman, the first punch delivered by Mrs. Bush nearly sent her down for the count. She was yet groggy when Mrs. Bush snapped off her own slipper and whaled the lady detective in the face, cutting her cheeks and nose.

A big fat man ran from a nearby movie show to the aid of Mrs. Myers. At least, that was the intention. Mrs. Bush met him with a right hander and her knuckles were closed tight in the regulation fashion. The fat man spun around like a merry-go-round. His shirt and other garments didn't move in unison, for the spunky little woman had them tightly clutched with both hands.

When it was possible to do so, the fat man rent himself loose and beat Mrs. Myers. According to eye-witnesses, he was in a fair fix to serve as a "work of art" especially from the waist up, had it not been for his shape.

Several young men, observed that Mrs. Myers was locked up on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Myers. Before turnkeys took Mrs. Bush to a cell, the nearly brushed them aside to get in reach of the detective at the desk sergeant's window.

Met Boyhood Friend.

Mrs. Bush said she was on her way home to her husband from a restaurant when she met a boy she had known in Alabama since a child. She had just stopped to sip a drink when Mrs. Myers loomed up and queried: "Young woman, are you alone on the street?"

"That was my husband," declared Mrs. Bush. "I surely beat her as hard as I could and intend to beat her every time she speaks to me like that."

R. L. Bush, husband of the prisoner, went to police headquarters and obtained her release.

Bush said that they came to Memphis several months ago from Alabama. While serving with the Alabama troops on the front, he had suffered a broken shoulder. It had given him trouble since and he was assisting as an orderly in the operation room of the Baptist hospital while receiving treatment.

When he arrived home Wednesday night, he said, Mrs. Bush told him the gas stove would not work. He gave her money to go to a restaurant for her supper. He had partaken of the evening meal at the hospital and feeling bad, did not accompany his wife.

He dropped off to sleep and waking some time later he was startled to find his wife still absent. He telephoned the Central police office and was told that Mrs. Bush was being detained.

The trial of Mrs. Bush was set for the late Thursday afternoon session of the police court. Police and detectives have an eye out for an important witness. He is a fat man, believed to be wearing a new shirt, collar, tie and arnica.

According to the "hot weather" had nothing on the fat chap" at the conclusion of his efforts to succor the lady sleuth.

Young Woman Under Arrest Says Frameup

According to officials at the central police station, the story of a young woman guest of the Hotel Gayoso, arrested at night by police officers, who accused her of a frameup, is almost unbelievable.

In answer to the police patrol car was sent to the Gayoso, in charge of Policeman Sanderson, who took the young woman, who he said, was of a good Mississippi family, to police headquarters. She was registered on the secret docket and held in the matron's department.

According to the hotel employee the young woman was accused of misconduct on an upper floor of the hotel. They claimed that a traveling man, who was a guest of the hotel, complained of the woman's behavior to force her attentions upon him.

The young woman, who has an extremely creditable appearance, declared that she had been tricked and was a victim of a frameup. She stated that she had been told by a man who had been in the hotel for some time, that she was to be a part of a scheme to defraud the hotel. She said she was to be a part of a scheme to defraud the hotel.

Chief Burrey will give the barbecue, all right. But he will establish a little selective service act all his own, when he gets the guests to his farm. He will gratify that burning ambition, then.

The ambition is to build a log house on the farm. The barbecue guests will be the carpenters and joiners. There's one reporter in town who will not be a guest at the barbecue. He's thinking of organizing a society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Scribes.

JOE BURNLEY WILL HAVE HOG RAISING

Joe B. Burnley, police chief, has a burning ambition. On the surface it looks to be the ambition to give a series of barbecues to a number of his friends, including husky reporters. He says the ambition is as hot as the sauce with which he will baste the pork for the guests of honor at the barbecue.

But when he made the proposition to a certain reporter, that young man decided there must be a reason for this sudden gastronomic generosity on the part of the chief. A probe proved his suspicions.

Chief Burnley will give the barbecue, all right. But he will establish a little selective service act all his own, when he gets the guests to his farm. He will gratify that burning ambition, then.

MISSIONARIES FOR MUTES SUGGESTED

Colony Has Service Only When It Can Pay Expenses of Preacher From Afar.

Deploing the fact that no provision is made whereby deaf and dumb people may reap the benefits of spiritual worship, Mrs. Charlotte Greer, 367 Canton avenue, proposes that a drive be started for the purpose of raising funds to make such worship possible.

Unfortunately heretofore have been restricted to one or two weeks of worship in a year's time. This occurred when they could raise sufficient money to bring a preacher here from New Orleans. The preacher's expenses, of course, had to be paid. Under the plan suggested by Mrs. Greer, the mutes would have a pastor here at all times, and their mission would be kept up by popular subscription, after having been established by funds raised in the drive she proposes.

"I have long felt that there is a growing need for regular church and mission work for the deaf and dumb," Mrs. Greer said Thursday. "It would be a noble deed for us, who can hear, to aid them in a spiritual way."

"Most people, doubtless, have noticed the great Methodist drive for mission money, and I think we should induce the mission board to establish mission fields for the deaf as part of the activities of the Methodist church as contemplated in the $35,000,000 centenary fund. I learn also that other churches will establish similar funds. There should be at least one missionary in each state to give the deaf spiritual enlightenment and encouragement in their own language. As they have contributed to other worthy causes, I see no reason why we should not succeed in accomplishing something at this time. Let us put our shoulder to the wheel and push this movement to a successful conclusion."

"I should like for every minister in this city next Sunday to give a talk on the subject of a mission for the deaf. As I have visited the deaf people's Sunday school, I know that is the only way to get those who can hear to see the needs of the deaf. It seems to me now is the proper time to act."

"We have helped other organizations, but we have never given this matter a thought before. The uplifting of the deaf people out of their own loneliness. They not only need help spiritually, but financially, in order to satisfy their needs and carry out good work among themselves."

"I should like to hear from others who may be interested in this work," Mrs. Greer concluded.
